Reeve would like restructured gov't

A county-provincial study on the restructuring of local government in Haliburton County has been cancelled and Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey is not happy.

Reeve Fearrey told The Echo that he understands the study was postponed because the province didn't have enough money to pay for it.

He said that there should be some study done on the restructuring of local government in the county. Reeve Fearrey said he believes that the county operate with less municipalities.

"The number could be reduced to half and be more efficient", he said.

Reeve Fearrey said that the study was not necessarily aimed at regional government for the area but, instead was just what it said a restructuring of local government.

Plans for the study were first brought to county council in the early 1970's but never got off the ground. By 1975 the plans were postponed because the province thought the amount of money the county wanted to spend was too much, said Wynn Lahay, county clerk.

She pointed out that the county had already appointed a commissioner when the project was postponed.

Studies have been done in a number of areas in the province to restructure the local government, county and district set ups.

Bridge lane closed for indefinite period

The northbound lane of the Portage Bridge on Highway 35 north of Minden, will be closed for an unknown period of time while supports are put in and the strength of the steel girders are checked.

Douglas White, district engineer, for the Ministry of Transportation and Communications, said that the lane closing is only temporary and there is no danger of the bridge collapsing.

A crack in one of the four girders was discovered by canoeists last week.

Mr. White said that the remaining three girders of the bridge will be tested to see if they have the same problems as the cracked girders.

He noted that the testing is done by cutting out pieces of the steel to see if there are any faults in its structure.

Ministry crews have the problem "well in hand" Mr. White said, but there still has been no estimate of the cost to repair the bridge.

He noted that once the temporary supports are added to the bridge it will be able to carry the standard highway load limits.

Another Minden bridge, Sunnybrooke, located in the village, is also in need of repairs. An engineers report showed that 45 percent of the surface of that bridge will have to be repaired immediately and another 25 percent should be repaired within the next five years.

Recorder is reborn

Haliburton County today witnessed the rebirth of a newspaper. The Recorder, published in Minden was founded August 21, 1884, 93 years ago by Messrs. Brown and Small in Minden as the Minden Echo and Haliburton Recorder.

The Recorder is then, not a newcomer to the Haliburton County scene, but a continuation of a pledge made by the originating publishers to provide the best of service to the entire county.

Youth stabbed

Michael Long, 16, of Hiawatha Drive, Waterloo, is reported in satisfactory condition at Ross Memorial Hospital, in Lindsay, following a stabbing incident near Minden, Thursday evening.

According to Ontario Provincial Police, Minden detachment, the youth was involved in an argument with another youth, during the course of which Long was stabbed in the abdomen.

Long was rushed to Lindsay hospital by Minden ambulance, where he underwent emergency surgery.

The incident occurred at Camp Onondaga, west of Minden, about 11:30 p.m.

Charged with assault causing bodily harm with intent to wound is Karl David Gardner, 16, of Willowdale.

Constable Mike Legge is investigating.

Four winners in first bike-a-thon

Four area youngsters took home new bicycles last week for their participation in the first Haliburton County Snowmobile Ass. Bike-a-thon.

Stephen Smith received a junior three speed for the youngest participant, David Barker won a 10 speed for having the most pledges, ($130) and Brian Nicholson and Kirk Creelman took home 10 speeds for the fastest time (two hours and two minutes).

Prizes were awarded only to the riders who turned in their pledge money.

A release from the association thanked Dominion Hardware of Haliburton for its "kind and generosity" which helped the association show a small profit.

The release pointed out that there were only 20 participants in the bike-a-thon but the association hopes to double or even triple that figure next year.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who donated their time to help us in this first venture," the release noted.

Kirk Creelman tied for the fastest time in the first annual Haliburton County Snowmobile Ass. bike-a-thon and received a 10 speed bicycle for his effort. He was one of four winners in the event.

Stephen Smith was the youngest participant in the first annual Haliburton County Snowmobile Ass. bike-a-thon. Stephen was given a junior three speed bicycle for his participation.

SUMMERS HALF OVER

We are now reaching the half way mark of the summer season, with another month to go. So far the weather has been ideal for vacationing and most of the visitors we have been talking with have enjoyed their holiday up to this point.

Some of the local merchants tell us that in their opinion there's not as many back this year while others claim that there's more tourists, but that they are not spending as much money as they did in the past. The small items are going well, but the big items are going very slow.

Some of the tourist operators are crying the blues and some have not as yet been filled to capacity.

This all brings us back to the question of getting more business all year round. This means trying more and more to promote the winter business and at all times to be on the outlook for small industry.

Let's keep promoting the summer tourist industry, but let us also keep in mind that we still need year round business or a solid economy.

BIG DAY COMING UP

The big show that everyone has been waiting for is coming up on Wednesday, August 4th. It's the Annual Haliburton Rotary Carnival with all of its thrills, excitement and entertainment.

The local people as well as the visitors are at all times looking for something to do and they certainly look forward to carnivals, such as will be staged by the Rotary Club of Haliburton.

Thousands of people will once again pour into Haliburton for the big day which as always will feature, a gigantic parade with floats, bands and marching units. The theme of this years parade will be "The Olympics" so you can start to build your float right away. This years parade will feature the Carlsberg Championship Team and Wagon which proves to be very popular wherever they perform.

The parade this year will have a different route starting at the Rotary Beach coming out by the Salvation Army Hall turning left swinging around the village, then over the new bridge down the main street and then turning down to the back street and back to the Rotary Beach.

The parade is the thing and the Rotary Club are looking forward to more participation from local merchants, clubs and tourist operators.

So make it a date now to bring along the entire family to the Haliburton Rotary Club's annual summer carnival to be held on Wednesday, August the 4th. You won't want to miss it.

Report from Queen's Park

by John Eakins
M.P.P., Victoria-Haliburton

The Ontario Legislature was recalled for a short emergency session to consider legislation, introduced by Premier Davis, which would have the effect of legalizing, on a retroactive basis, an arrangement which had been made with the federal government, by which provincial and municipal employees were placed under the control of the Federal Anti-inflation Board.

Last fall the Liberal Opposition had urged the government to establish a Provincial Anti-inflation Board to deal with the Public Sector in Ontario. However, the New Democratic Party did not support this proposal and therefore provincial and municipal workers were placed under the control of the Federal Board. Now the Supreme Court of Canada has ruled that Ontario's arrangement with Ottawa, passed by Cabinet Order-in-Council was illegal.

The Supreme Court decision could have created a very complicated situation here in Ontario. If the Government had been unable to obtain agreement in the Legislature to the enabling legislation proposed by the Premier, every agreement reached with public sector workers since last October would have been negated, and there would have been many court cases to be adjudicated upon. As Stuart Smith, Liberal Leader, pointed out, this would have meant that public employees would gain - or could gain - large salary increases while private workers had their increases rolled back by the Anti-inflation Board.

During the debate on the emergency legislation, Liberal speakers indicated that while a provincial board would have been preferable, it was now virtually too late to establish such a board. Some 82,673 Ontario workers have already been affected by decisions of the Anti-inflation Board as of June 25th, 1976, and many more had been affected which, at the time of the emergency debate had not been tabulated. Of this number, some 55,290 are in the public sector.

As of the 25th June, 1976, the Anti-inflation Board had made decisions on 987 cases, 186 in the public sector, the remaining 149 in the private sector. These figures are for Ontario.

In view of the fact that the Federal Anti-inflation Board has now built up a backlog of jurisprudence, the staff of the Board has been trained in the work of the Board, and considerable experience has been gained; it would hardly seem reasonable that Ontario should now duplicate this organization. This idea would have been preferable last Fall, but would appear to be unnecessary duplication of bureaucracy at this point. The Liberal Party therefore supported the legislation of the Government which was made necessary when the Supreme Court of Canada rejected Ontario's entry into the federal programme by means of an Order-in-Council.

The New Democratic Party opposed the government legislation, being opposed to the Anti-inflation policy. There was lengthy debate on the Bill proposed by the Premier, but this received third reading and proclaimed on the Thursday, July 15th. The Ontario Legislature will continue to be in recess for the summer months, until recalled in the fall, unless a further emergency arises. It has been suggested that this may be a possibility if the Court of Appeal rules that the Provincial Government acted illegally in closing hospitals in Clinton, Durham, Chesley and Doctors' Hospital in Toronto. These hospitals have remained opened following a May 10th Divisional Court ruling that the Government's method of closure was improper, and the Government has appealed the Divisional Court ruling. A decision from the Ontario Court of Appeal is expected some time in September.

See you next week.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

The end of an era was reached this past week on Sandy Bay Road at Gull Lake. For many years Evelyn Austin owned and operated a small store along with the Lutterworth Post Office. The store closed two years ago and Evelyn retired to Minden. Last week she passed away at the Minden Hospital. As her many friends gathered to pay their last respects fond memories of several generations of Sandy Bay Road "children" were exchanged. She will certainly be missed, and those of us that knew her, will always be grateful for those memories. Most of her life was devoted to ensuring that those on holidays enjoyed their rest - now may she rest in peace.

A film crew were guests at Drag Lake Lodge recently while they took advantage of the beautiful Highlands to film some new Molson's commercials. Ron Curry was pleased to co-operate with them and provided an area in front of his cottage. Watch for Drag Lake on T.V.

What happened to all the Campers? Although cottages and resorts are quite busy at the moment the trailer parks are all running well behind last year. There is even a noticeable lack of camper and trailer traffic on the highways. Parks that rely mainly on seasonal customers are the only ones with "business as usual."

Webster Wholesale have still got a large supply of "Haliburton is for Lovers" badges and placements available. We urge all reports to make use of the placemats and offer the badges for sale. The placemats are $12.75 per 1,000 and the badges are $4.00 per bag of 25.

A further check with the Better Business Bureau in Toronto regarding the solicitations from the Classified Directory Publishers has provided us with the following information. They did in fact publish a directory in 1974 and 1975, but the only circulation that is known of was to the advertisers themselves. It would appear that $58.00 is a lot of money to pay just to see your own name in print. We repeat - we do not recommend their service.

There are many things happening in and around the Highlands this week. Check the Chamber's Coming Events list for the ones that interest you.

Sample rooms are made available by Ministry

To better assist Ontario companies in their domestic marketing efforts, the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism is offering a 'product sample room' for use free by Ontario manufacturers.

A sample room, a familiar method of introducing products to buyers, has been set up by the ministry's Division of Trade. Called the Trade Information Centre, it is located on the 7th floor, 900 Bay St., Heart Block, Queen's Park, Toronto.

Purpose of the centre is to furnish potential sales agents and distributors with information on Ontario products for sales expansion within the province or across Canada.

At the end of 1975, the Division of Trade had a comprehensive inventory listing of more than 1,200 Canadian agents and distributors. Under its 'Sales Agents and Distributors Programs,' the division's Domestic Marketing Branch saw 61 sales agreements completed last year valued in millions of dollars.

Information on more than 200 product lines including construction and maintenance equipment, hardware, housewares, electrical goods and industrial products has recently been sent to the centre and is currently on display. Ontario manufacturers interested in obtaining an agent or distributor are invited to send in their product literature.

For further information contact: Dave Prentice, Trade Information Centre Co-ordinator, (416) 965-6722.

This crazy world

Bill Smiley

It's a pretty cock-eyed world we live in these days. Everything my generation was brought up to respect and admire has become a subject of derision. Everything we were taught to despise has become an object of veneration. Or so it seems to these rather glassy eyes.

There's no denying it's an interesting time to be an inhabitant of the world. Just as it must have been an interesting time in about 600 A.D. to be a Roman citizen. Raging inflation, vandals at the gates, but free bread and a new smash hit at the Colosseum, bill changed every Thursday.

Perhaps the only thing for the sage or the cynic to do, in order to retain his sanity, is to stand on the sidelines and chuckle. The alternative is to stand on the sidelines and sob.

I prefer to chuckle, with only the occasional, quickly choked sob.

I'm chuckling with about the same amount of hilarity as Cassandra, the Trojan princess. She was given by the gods the gift of prophecy, with the proviso (the gods always had a catch in it) that nobody would ever believe her glimpses into the future.

Right now, I'm chuckling merrily about the Olympics. About two years ago, and again last year, I spelled it out, loud and clear, right in this very space. We were going to be taken as we have never been taken before.

Just recently, we entered Phase 2 of my predictions. That outstanding Canadian, that huge frog in the big puddle, Mayor Dropout of Montreal, was right on schedule.

He dropped out, and turned over a debt of about half a billion (not million, billion) dollars to an even bigger frog in an even bigger puddle, M. Bareassa. The name itself is prophetic; that's the way we're all going to wind up.

Phase 3 consists of M. Bareassa handing over the muddle to Pierre Fuddle-Duddle, the biggest frog in the biggest puddle of all.

And I don't think I have to tell you what Phase 4 consists of. If you can't see the handwriting on the wall, either you have a reading disability or you are not a taxpayer.

Let me assure my readers, my assistant department head, Miss Sauve, and my shuffleboard partner, Mr. Chenier, that the foregoing remarks are not racist. I am not even a Zionist.

I don't care whether I'm conned by a Jew or an Arab, a Chinaman or a Texan, a Presbyterian, Ukrainian or a black Catholic. All I care about is the fact that I'm being conned.

In fact, my liberal and unprejudiced views are known far and wide, with the exception of one Walter Somebody, a Jap in Alberta. One of my best friends in the air force was an American. One of my favorite students is an Australian. I mean, how broad-minded can you get!

Well, that dispensed with, let's turn to other examples of our crazy, mixed-up world. Everything is either backwards, or upside down.

A friend told me this. She is a highly qualified teacher, who quit to have some babies. Recently, she was offered a part-time job, teaching, and was interested, as her babies are past the stage where they require 28 hours of care a day.

Her potential employer told her: "We are told you are an excellent teacher. But there is one serious criticism of you. They say you are a disciplinarian."

Ten or 15 years ago, a principal who managed to bag a good teacher and a disciplinarian would have been shouting from the rooftops: "Hey, I got me a good disciplinarian." This is how principals talk. It would be the equivalent of a coach announcing he had just signed Johnny Rodgers or Bobby Orr.

Today it's a flaw. She didn't take the job, and the world is that much shabbier.

Still on education. It used to be something you took for one of two reasons. If you were rich, you went to college to become well rounded. If you were poor, you went to college so that you would someday be rich and able to send your kids to school to become well-rounded.

Not so today. Going to college has become a career. My son-in-law, after 20 years of education, is just starting a five-year course. He'll be a grandfather if and when he graduates.

Even closer to home, it's a crazy world. For the first time in her life, my wife has a weight problem. She's gaining, instead of losing. At the same time, she has acquired a long-slumbering passion for gourmet cooking.

With typical courage, she has tackled both problems simultaneously.

She sits serenely, reading her books on exercise and dieting. Then she tosses them aside and picks up one of her four new cookbooks.

She gets all her exercise hustling around the stove, concocting something that would turn an eel into a porpoise.

Between Friends is donated to library

Two copies of "Between Friends/Entre Amis", Canada's Bicentennial gift to the United States have been generously donated to the Haliburton County Library.

Because of the significance and beauty of this book, the County Library would like to have a copy in each of our 10 municipal outlets, but, because of budget restraints is unable to purchase one title in this quantity.

It is an outstanding book, worth every cent of the one million dollars that went into its production and the $29.50 it costs in bookstores. The quality of photographs taken by the National Film Board within 20 miles of our International Border indicate the care and the genius that has gone into the book's composition. The captions for the photographs made up of selected quotations on Canadian-American relations and our singular identities are a mine of wit and wisdom.

Any person or organization interested in donating a copy of this book, to be used by their friends and neighbours through our libraries, should contact Heather Gardiner at 457-2241.

Community involvement essential for Canadians involvement in the community is essential to the well-being of Canada and to the system of government, commented Jim Webster, Progressive Conservative leader for Victoria-Haliburton.

"A political involvement is the most direct way we have to influence the paths we travel in the future of Canada," he said, speaking to the Minden Rotary Club.

Mr. Webster, a lawyer in Fenelon Falls, said that one of the issues which has lead him to become involved in politics is the fact that 43 percent of employed Canadians are one government payrolls. "The 57 percent employed privately must earn enough to support the 43 percent living on the public purse, along with their indexed pensions and generous benefit programs," he said.

Mr. Webster pointed out that the future prosperity of Canada "will be found in an emphasis on private growth rather than government growth."

"We see daily the effects of inflation, less clearly do we see that inflation causes a shifting of economic power from individuals and business to government," he said.

Mr. Webster pointed out that Canada is in a situation where it is less competitive in world markets for manufactured goods.

"Our position erodes as labor rates match or exceed the United States while, at the same time, our productivity rates fall further behind the United States," he commented.

He pointed out that this is not helped by a built in disadvantage of geography and climate. "Canada has set world records in man-hours lost to strikes, and yet we look with amusement on some European countries and their strikes," he added.

Mr. Webster said he is concerned with regulatory bureaucracies "where the regulators demand the ideal situation and appear to ignore the realities of the problem at hand."

He pointed out that he is also concerned with the people who believe they must emphasize their own importance by going out of their way to be difficult rather than trying to solve the problem.

"I am concerned with these same people who boost their own position by gathering as many underlings as possible, all of which adds unneeded delay to the bureaucratic process," Mr. Webster added.

He noted that Canadians are faced with a premium dollar. "As our trade deficit worsens, we have to keep our interest rates high to attract foreign loans. At times we appear to forget that loans must be repaid," he said.

Mr. Webster pointed out that high interest rates have slowed building growth, "they have made buying a home mean 25 years of work to pay the interest."

He added that the premium dollar has affected the forest products business in Ontario by making American imports cheaper. "The same applies to agricultural products, both of these directly affect Victoria and Haliburton."

Mr. Webster said he is concerned with the ability of Canada to provide "cradle to grave" security to all who ask when this is exploited by some in our country to the detriment of those who truly need it."

He said in the past Canadians' higher standard of living was accomplished with a high production of goods and services.

"It was not financed by disposing of investments of earlier years, or by exploiting irretrievably our natural resources or by borrowing everywhere we can to pay the costs of today," he noted.

Mr. Webster pointed out that if the Canadian economy should crumble those affected most seriously will be those whom the redistribution of wealth has been designed to help.

"Must we not consider the creation of wealth equally as important as the redistribution of wealth," he said.

"Our twin goals of freedom and equality must always be viewed together, they are not independent, but are dependent on a delicate balance. An extreme emphasis of regulated equality will mean freedom for no one," Mr. Webster said.

He noted that the answers to these problems are not simple but "we must be aware of these questions and that we must, individually and collectively put forth our views unless those of us who are not content with the current situation wish to lose to default."

"I believe that the future of Canada is second to none, all that is required to ensure that future is the dedication and participation of those who care," Mr. Webster concluded.

Does your car have the shakes? Vibration at specific speeds or at all speeds when driving on the freeway indicates that something is out of balance. Many cases can be cured easily. A tire goes out of balance when a wheel weight falls off or when a new tire is installed without being balanced. Driveshafts can also cause "the shakes," but first check tires and wheels because they're easier to correct and more apt to cause problems.

Cottagers Concern

The Lake Miskwabi Cottagers' Association expressed concern about the development of roads not up to municipal standards.

Murray Fearrey, reeve of Dysart, was the special guest at the annual meeting of the association. He was asked a number of questions including the development of roads, inclusion of Long Lake in highway markings in Haliburton County, by-law enforcement, logging damage, need for area stop signs, public access to lake and tax distribution.

Mr. Fearrey advised the association on how the municipality operates, the tax situation, market value assessment and the status of the inclusion of the Miskwabi area in the Dysart official plan.

He pointed out that the restructuring of local government study appears to be deferred.

Mr. Fearrey added that the municipality has been active in road improvements and back lots are now on the market.

Jerry Strickland, president of the association reported that the association has followed the status of development extension plans on Lake Miskwabi. "Based on the Ministries of Environment and Natural Resources reports, the Ministry of Housing has recommended against the development extension to the north shore of Lake Miskwabi," he stated. Mr. Strickland added that the association has also produced its own report on the area in order to provide information and to assist in arriving at the most desirable use and development of the area.

A pollution committee has been formed, chaired by Lorne Atkinson, who will be the contact with provincial and municipal departments on pollution and environment matters along with the procurement of relevant literature for distribution.

The report also noted that a sanitary survey could be carried out by the Ministry of Environment at some future date.

Bell Telephone has confirmed that an area phone booth would be installed at Sunrise Cottages near Loon Lake.

Mr. Strickland pointed out, "The association executive would now concentrate on preparing a brief on the education tax situation."

The treasurer's and water project's committee reports were presented and accepted along with a constitution amendment clarifying jurisdiction to include Lakes Miskwabi, Negaunee and Long.

Considerable literature was made available to the group on boat safety, pollution and cottage country matters. The cottagers were also advised of the danger of dams as requested by the Trent Canal Authorities.

The association was requested to assist in obtaining hydro extension to Long Lake and bring the condition of Highway 503, Tory Hill to Norland, to the attention of the provincial government.

The 1976-77 executive of the association is Jerry Strickland, president; Tom McGovern, vice president; Steve Westbrook, treasurer; Mrs. Pat McGovern, secretary; Lorne Atkinson, director and Frank Crawford, director.

Residents in Harvey Township have an unusual awakening

Residents in Harvey township east of Byd Island on Pigeon Lake, and southeast of Galesburg in Douro Twp. may have had an unusual awakening on the morning of July 5. Just after 6 a.m. a light plane dipped out of the sky, zoomed across the fields, climbed over the tree tops, and looped back for several more passes across the fields.

This operation was an experimental application of a nuclear polyhedrosis virus against the red-headed pine sawfly Neodiprion lecontei (Fitch), a serious defoliator of young red pine trees. This insect deposits its eggs in a slit cut in the needle for that purpose by the adult female. The larvae hatch in late spring and feed in colonies on both the old and new foliage of the red pine trees, and usually defoliate one branch before moving to the next. In the two areas which were sprayed, infestations were severe, as several colonies of larvae were found on each tree, with up to 100 larvae per colony. A couple of years of complete defoliation by the insects would result in the death of the young red pines.

The control organism applied was a virus isolated in the laboratory from larvae which had died of natural causes. Several months were required to propagate sufficient virus material, before lab tests indicated that the virus could be an effective control measure. During the operation on July 5, three levels of application were tried, to determine the smallest dose per acre which would provide an effective measure of control.

Weather on the morning of July 5 was almost ideal, temperatures below 18. degrees celcius to prevent convection currents and updrafts, and wind speeds below three miles per hour to prevent drift of the spray. The pilot was able to drop the aircraft to within 15 to 20 feet of the tree tops and the spray drifted down spreading evenly over the area.

It should be emphasized that the control virus was found originally in sawfly larvae which had died of natural causes, and the virus cannot spread to humans, other animals, birds, fish or even other members of the insect world.

Preliminary assessments of the spray's effectiveness, indicate that even the lowest rate of application would be effective in reducing insect populations and preventing much of the defoliation which would have occurred otherwise. During the first week after spraying, even in the area of lowest application, larvae were slowing down in their rate of feeding, the first indication that the virus is beginning to take effect. However, it may be two or three weeks before a significant degree of defoliation control is achieved. In the meantime, virologists and technicians continue to collect specimens of the larvae for analysis to determine the effectiveness of the population control.

Although the virus material is presently not available to the public for use against these defoliating insects, we are hopeful that in the not too distant future it will be available to licensed pesticide operators. In this way, one more step will have been taken in the process of moving from chemical control measures to natural biological controls in controlling future outbreaks of insects harmful to our forests.

Ontario Trails Council

The Ontario Trails Council was appointed by the Minister of Natural Resources on September 1, 1975, as an autonomous citizen's group. The council represents trail users, recreationists and environmentalists. Its 17 members also include representatives of agriculture and municipal communities.

The council has been given the responsibility of obtaining the view of the public on the planning and development of a recreational trails programme in Ontario. In order to meet local residents and allow them to express their individual concerns, the council is holding a series of public meetings across the province. The next public meeting of the Ontario Trails Council will be held in; Peterborough, on Aug. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at The Rock Haven Motor Hotel, 1875 Lansdowne St. West, on Hwy. 28.

We would urge trail users, landowners and other interested groups or individuals to attend and make known your concerns on recreational trails. From among the trail users we would like to hear from hikers, snowmobilers, cross-country skiers, bicyclists, motorized trail bikers and equestrians. Spectators will be welcomed, and those wishing to address the council are requested to prepare a written brief expressing their views.

"Good Times" at Wilberforce fair

The Wilberforce Country Good Times, held last weekend turned out to be a resounding success.

Under perfect weather conditions, thousands of people jammed Wilberforce for the many attractions. Held as an annual event and sponsored by the Monmouth Recreation Committee, this fun weekend has mushroomed in popularity each year. With the added space in the grounds and the use of the curling club every event was increased in size.

Winner of this year's beauty contest was Karen Bell of Harcourt. Second place went to Cathy Martin of Harcourt, while Harcourt Park's own Karen Lamb took third.

The amateur contest was also well contested with Patti MacKey of Cardiff walking off with first prize. Karen Gussasson was second while Wendy Billings of Cameron took third.

Lucky winners of the ten speed bicycles raffled off were a pair of Dunsford boys, Dale MacGregor and Don Coulter.

Competition in the horse drawing contest was keen but in the final analysis Mac MacGillivray's team pull of 9,450 pounds was the winner. Second place went to Carl MacGillivray of Cardiff, third was Murray Cowen of Haliburton, fourth was Clifford Manion of Plevna while Bob Danford of Stirling came fifth.

Other events included a Teen Dance and grand ball, helicopter rides, pancake breakfast, Legion parade, a large library display, free draws, big midway and an opening parade.

Parade winners were: best overall float - Wilberforce Figure Skating Club; best antique float - Reg. Schofield's group from Wilberforce; best comedy float - the Terrace Inn of Wilberforce, with special mention to the Karl Tallman entry from Wilberforce; Best walking costume - Derek Smith of Wilberforce.

The sponsors of the Good Times weekend wish to convey to the many, many people who participated, as well as to those who attended, a sincere thank you for your patronage and help.

College to offer first ambulance care program

Sir Sandford Fleming College has received provincial approval to offer a part-time ambulance and emergency care program designed to up-grade current ambulance service personnel according to Ontario government standards.

Health sciences division chairman Colleen Shaughnessy said Sir Sandford is the first Ontario college to receive permission to include content offered at a previously-established Ministry of Health course at Camp Borden.

Completion of this ministry course is a pre-requisite for ambulance courses at other colleges, which Miss Shaughnessy noted would present major practical problems for the many volunteer ambulance attendants found in this region's smaller centers.

The first Sir Sandford course is slated for mid-September at the Brealey campus in Peterborough. The Camp Borden course content will be taught by instructors from the Ministry of Health's Ambulance Service Branch, including basic emergency care, preparation for a radio operator licence, and information concerning the Ontario Ambulance Service Information System (OASIS), which is a province wide communication data system.

Other subjects will be taught by college personnel and include introductory and advanced anatomy and physiology; health care delivery, and driver improvement and vehicle maintenance.

A total of 105 hours of the program involves clinical practice at general hospitals in the area.

Miss Shaughnessy said interest has been expressed in the program by ambulance units from Minden, Haliburton, Bobcaygeon, Fennell Falls, Lindsay and Peterborough.

The program will be presented two evenings per week over a 42-week period, for a total of 345 hours.

Upon graduation, attendants will be at a level consistent with that of a full time ambulance and emergency care program, according to Miss Shaughnessy.

Graduates will be able to provide emergency care to the victim of accident or illness, provide care and protection from further injury during transportation by ambulance, and would be able to assist, as required, in the continuing program of emergency patient care within a hospital or other health facility, she noted.

Disposition of Crown timber governed by Act

By H. J. Henry Regional Forester

The disposition of Crown timber is governed by the Crown Timber Act which provides for the granting of licences to cut, by the minister; for sale by tender in a salvage operation, where the stumpage charges are less than $2,000.00; and with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

Each District in this region grants annual cutting approvals to cut Crown timber, where the stumpage charges do not exceed $2,000.00. These wood volumes help supply local residents with wood material for their personal use and also provide an additional supply of raw material for local wood-using industries.

The amount of wood available within any one year depends on the assigned allowable cuts which have been determined for individual Crown Management Unit areas, and basically reflect the age of the tree and its annual growth rate. The necessity to salvage timber because of damage by wind, fire, disease and insect infestations could effect these allocations.

Where there is a heavy local demand for wood products there must be some equitable procedure for assuring that all applicants have the same opportunity the annual allocated timber volumes. It is therefore proposed that Crown timber having a stumpage value less than $2,000.00 will be disposed of by lump-sum tendered sales, excepting for fuelwood permits and timber for personal use.

Additional particulars can be obtained by contacting respective District Managers at these locations: Algonquin Park, Bancroft, Bracebridge, Minden, Parry Sound and Pembroke.

Gull Watershed is stable

Flow from the Gull Watershed has remained stable in the past week, but, the Burnt Watershed has increased slightly a report on the Trent-Severn Waterway stated.

There was 86 percent storage on the Reservoir Lakes on July 22.

Work is completed on all the reservoir dams with each dam now having a bright orange handrail, and orange and white log booms in front of the dam.

Restoration work in continuing at the Norland Dam, and people directly above the dam are cautioned that the water will be lowered up to a foot, for a couple of days at a time. This is to facilitate work being done on the dam.

Also in the reservoir Lakes there are five new gauges being installed at different locations. These should help in monitoring the water levels and give a more accurate picture of what is happening in the lakes.

In the Kawarthas, new log booms have been placed on an experimental basis at Locks 22 and 23. Also one has been placed at the Mississauga Dam. Boaters and swimmers in the area are reminded that these booms designate dangerous areas around the dam and are to prevent someone from going through or against the dam should an accident occur.

With the Kawartha Lakes at their maximum range and the flow past Peterborough fairly close to the minimum, it is expected that flows out of the reservoir lakes should remain about the same if the weather stays dry and warm. The evaporation off of the Kawarthas is about 7/10 of an inch per week, which is slightly lower than this time last year.

Pasture fields in area need to be mowed

The Lindsay agricultural office reports that a great deal of the pasture field in Haliburton and Victoria would benefit from being mowed.

"Mowing will not only remove most of the weeds present, but will also help to bring on a new growth of grass," a release from the office states.

It is pointed out in the release that a lot of grass has gone to seed and is not very attractive to the cattle. By cutting off this woody growth, you will stimulate a new crop of succulent leaves. "These could be of real benefit especially if the weather turns dry in August," the release says.

THE ENERGY WASTE WATCHER

This column will look at painless ways of cutting down your fuel and electricity bills at home. Have any suggestions? Send them along to the Energy Waste Watcher at Information EMR, 588 Booth Street, Ottawa K1A 0E4.

Most Canadian families, says one Hydro company, use as much electricity in a month drying the laundry as they do in two years of vacuuming the rugs.

Aside from investing in a washboard and drying the laundry on a clothesline, there are ways you can save considerable electricity and money by using both washer and dryer more efficiently.

In general, when purchasing a laundry appliance you might keep in mind that large capacity washers and dryers can handle in one load what smaller appliances must do in two. So all things considered, it pays to buy the larger appliance.

The secret to energy saving while doing the laundry is simply to keep it cool. In running an automatic washer, most of the energy is drawn for heating the water, not running the machine. A washer that can clean a given quantity of clothes using a minimum of hot water will be most sparing with energy and your money.

Regardless of what detergent you choose, it will probably take hot water to cope with really dirty greasy items, while cold or warm washing works well for lightly soiled or coloured clothing, synthetics or woolsens.

When it comes to rinse temperatures, a cold water rinse does the job on any fabric, no matter what the washing temperature has been.

Many automatic washers can be adjusted to match the water level to the size of the load, and also have a reset feature to change the fill level in case of misjudgement. You may also be able to select wash time for the size and dirtiness of the load, and thus avoid wasting energy by running the machine longer than necessary. The "suds saver" is another inexpensive option on many washers that can save considerable quantities of hot water. You might consider these features when choosing an appliance.

If you can, locate the washer close to the hot water heater. This way, you'll avoid losing heat while piping the water from tank to machine.

Finally, using a high-speed spin when washing will somewhat shorten the drying time and contribute to your energy savings.

Carnarvon news

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Fyffe and baby Adam of London, also Martha Cranley, of Toronto have been spending some time at Boskung Lake.

Ron and Jane Brownlee and family from Lynden, Ont. are staying with Mr. & Mrs. Fryer for a few days. The Fryer's used to live in Lynden.

In last week's paper we have it in, that Mrs. Dalziel from Newfoundland had her son Christopher with her, this was in error as his name is Alexander. They were visiting with Mrs. George Cowen at her cottage.

Mr. & Mrs. Roger Harrison and family were visiting this week end. Mrs. Rogers and the boys will be up for a few days. They are visiting with the Burtons.

Some of our young folks who have left us to work in Toronto were up for a weeks holiday with their parents. Tom Harrison, Colin Russell and Larry Bender. Mrs. Baldwin who has a cottage on Mountain Lake has her two grandsons for a visit with her this week.

Zion United Church was full to capacity, it is so nice to see our summer visitors come each year, and they seem to enjoy the service so much.

There was also a good crowd at the 12 Mile Lake Service for the sing song. Where we saw a beautiful sunset over the lake. Rev. Steed gave a message last night, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

John Eakins, M.P.P., Victoria-Haliburton, says that special attention will be focused on the initiation of downtown revitalization programs this year. Assistance will be given Ontario municipalities by the government in undertaking certain downtown renewal projects.

"This has always been one area of special interest to me and one which I have continually worked to bring about," he said.

The main objectives of this program are:

"During 1976, the provincial government will initiate a downtown revitalization program to assist Ontario municipalities in undertaking certain downtown renewal projects. Main objectives in this program are:

- to revitalize portions of core areas in smaller and medium sized Ontario communities with a population below 125,000 by providing limited provincial fundin at favourable terms, where the need for such assistance can be justified;
- to finance specific 'seeding' or 'multiplier' projects of downtown plans which will stimulate completion of the plan;

-- to encourage ongoing maintenance and investment within those downtown cores as well as the renewal of obsolete land uses.

"The provincial assistance available in attaining these objectives will take the form of partially recoverable loans, for two-thirds of the approved cost of a number of projects. These would include the acquisition and/or clearance of land for a key revenue-producing development; the installation of an open or covered mall or semi-mall; the improvement of ancillary municipal services and design plans for facade improvement in accordance with approved plans.

To take advantage of the downtown revitalization program, a municipality will have to meet certain requirements. It will have to make a strong commitment to the downtown core. It will have to develop a plan, in concert with its official plan, to follow through on this commitment. And it will have to identify the key "seeding" or "multiplier" projects in the plan which require and qualify for provincial financial assistance.

"Administrative details of this program are currently being developed by a committee appointed from ministry staff and from members of the Municipal Liaison Committee (MLC). Full details on eligibility, procedures and conditions will be available by the end of August this year," he said.

Check grain for damage

Farmers in Haliburton and Victoria are asked to check their grain and corn fields for damage caused by army worms.

A report from the Lindsay Agricultural office states that a second generation of these worms has hatched and is starting to damage crops in some areas.

"If you do find army worms, keep a close watch on the extent of the damage, especially to the heads of grain," the report states. It points out that five or six army worms per square foot could warrant spraying for control.

"Army worms are brown to dark green caterpillars with five light stripes running the length of their body," the report says.

It points out that if you are finding a lot of blackbirds in a grain field it could be that they are feeding on army worms.

Area youths charged with break-ins

Three Haliburton area youths have each been charged with break, enter and theft and possession of stolen property in connection with a break-in July 14 at Browndale Airport House. Spencer Michael MacKenzie, 17, Joseph Conrad McGraw, 16, and Clifford George Patriquin, 16 all of R.R. 1, Haliburton have been charged.

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Police has recovered $350. in stolen property.

Car wrecked in crash

A 1976 model vehicle is a write-off following a run-in with a stand of trees and a fence alongside a Bexley Township road, just west of Coboconk around 2:00 a.m. Tuesday.

The driver, Michael Bosley 32 of Cambray, received cuts and bruises and was treated at Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. A passenger in the car, 30 year old, Harry Sheehan of Stoney Creek, complained of a sore neck.

According to Constable M.E. Ware of the Coboconk OPP, the eastbound driver claimed he had just crested a hill when an oncoming vehicle forced him to take evasive action and the car plowed into roadside trees and a fence before ending up with an estimated $4200 damage. No charges were laid.

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of Council; Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of Monmouth.

We have examined the 1975 financial statements of the Corporation of the Township of Monmouth. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of Monmouth as at December 31, 1975 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.
